

Overview

Archived security video can be long and boring. In the majority of scenes most of the archived video consists of just a static background without any people, vehicles, or objects of interest, forcing security professionals or homeowners to go through a time-consuming review of archived video in order to find events. IntelliVision's Video Summary changes all that.

Video Summary reduces a long, archived video into a short, manageable video summary. It reduces the time required to analyze archived video by removing unnecessary video data such as static or empty scenes while retaining the relevant data. This allows security professionals or homeowners to quickly review hours of archived video in minutes.

Features

Video Summary can receive video input from many different types of video archives recorded on DVRs, NVRs, or video management systems. It can also provide real-time video summaries on live video feeds from analog, digital, or IP/network cameras.

- Integrates with RTSP streams from any IP camera, NVR, or Video Management System
- Supports a filelist of video inputs with MP4, TS, HLS, and FLV formats
- Outputs in a standard video file format for easy review by any media player

- Configurable compression and playback speed of video summary allows for varying levels of detail
- Enables security professionals or homeowners to rapidly search for past incidents from archived video

Platform Specifications

Video Summary is available in the following forms:

- Software application and SDK running on Intel-based servers
- Cloud-based web services running on public or private cloud

About IntelliVision

IntelliVision is a market leader in AI and Deep Learning-based video analytics and video cloud software for Smart Cameras. IntelliVision solutions provide actionable insights for security and monitoring in Smart Home/Enterprise/City and Retail applications. IntelliVision is a privately-held company with HQ in San Jose, California and offices in Asia and Europe.

IntelliVision
6203 San Ignacio Ave, #112
San Jose, CA 95119

+1 (408) 754-1690
www.intelli-vision.com
sales@intelli-vision.com

VS1217

